

Jason Wright presents the school assembly “The Seventeen Second Miracle”

JASON WRIGHT

New York Times Bestselling Author, Columnist, Speaker

“Jason’s presentation was an exciting way to encourage students to find ways to treat each other with kindness and respect. His storytelling and student involvement combined for a dynamic, engaging assembly. The on-going value is that we continue to reference ‘What Mr. Wright said’ as we remind students that the ‘little’ things we do for each other each day can have a huge impact. Unlike other presentations that are ‘over’ as soon as the students leave the auditorium, Jason’s message endures.” - Gina Stetter, Principal, Peter Muhlenberg Middle School

| | |
|----------------------------|---|
| Assembly Length: | 30-45 minutes (flexible based on school schedule) |
| Age Range: | 6 th -12 th grade (content intensity based on age) |
| Presentation Needs: | Handheld microphone, several chairs |
| Costs: | Negotiable, county and statewide contracts available |
| Assembly Headline: | You can change a life a few seconds at a time. |

Overview:

We don’t always need parents or teachers to tell us when or how to perform mini-miracles in the lives of people around us. We simply need to have our eyes open to the opportunities.

Students will learn that life isn’t about big moments. It’s all about the few seconds we donate every day to serve one another. Pre-planned or dramatic scenes of service or sacrifice will not define our lives. Greatest is about today’s unscheduled acts of service – the miracles.

What are students doing today to make a difference? Opening a door? Befriending the new kid?

We live in a me-first world. Jason understands this because he’s been a me-first person most of his life. This program will challenge students to think differently.

Bio:

Jason Wright is the New York Times bestselling author of ten books, including Christmas Jars, The Wednesday Letters, and The Seventeen Second Miracle. His weekly columns appear in several major newspapers and web sites and he has spoken to thousands around the world of all ages and on many topics.

More information: <http://www.jasonfwright.com> - Beverly Jensen assembly@jasonfwright.com - 540-459-9002